To Whom it May Concern,

Pradnesh Mohite worked as a Mentor (senior support consultant) in my team at Allscripts

He was a mentor and was responsible for assisting the level 1 support teams and taking escalations.

Apart from that he was also responsible for quality and auditing level 1 calls and coaching them. He also worked with the Pre-Development team on complex issues and helped escalated those to development for resolution. He is always thorough with his work and reports. Always made sure to close the loop on the tasks or projects assigned.

Based on my experience and interaction with him, I can say, he possesses the following qualities: -

Collaboration and Cooperation: -

He tackles all tasks he is assigned enthusiastically and takes on additional responsibilities.

He accepts constructive criticism positively.

He is self-motivated and strives to complete all his tasks on time.

He has a thirst for skills and knowledge. He always challenges himself to perform tasks to the best possible standard.

He has a welcoming and friendly character.

Productivity and Quality of Work

He is a detail minded person and completes his work with high quality & in a timely manner.

This has been demonstrated through the feedback and audits he did for his mentees.

He never neglects even the smallest detail of tasks assigned to him.

He is highly reliable and has gradually taken new responsibilities with minimal guidance or direction.

Attendance and Punctuality

He always makes sure to meet the deadline for any task.

He is highly punctual for work and meetings.

Adaptability

He quickly adapts to changes in the performance of his duties.

The new role of a mentor had a lot of challenges and hurdles. However, Pradnesh through continuous learning evolved into a strong mentor.

He acknowledges and recognizes any proposal for change.

He gets involved and quickly adapts to different changes in different situations.

Accountability

His willingness to assist teammates whether assigned to him or not, in completing their tasks demonstrates his sense of responsibility and team player he is.

The quality of his work and documentation is highly consistent.

He is actively involved with his mentees and works closely to help improve their performance.

He bagged multiple EOM awards for his and his team's excellent performance.

He has handled customer escalations with ease and helped change client experience.
He also has taken good care of his dedicated clients and Beta clients.
He understands how to listen to customers and find out the details which make a big difference when dealing with clients. That's also why his clients never complained.

Initiative

He is supportive of new ideas, goals and working methods no matter where they come from.
He is also amongst those who would take a call or chat first, if waiting. Before asking the team to jump and clear.
He has also taken multiple projects, escalations, assisted teammates and coached mentees during his tenure as a mentor.

I would highly recommend him for any institution or employer. He has been an asset to my team.

Sincerely,

Girish Vij (Senior Technical Support Manager)
